#Brief description of Object(s):

S. No.	Name of the object(s)	Brief description of the object(s)
1	To meet the working capital requirements	The company proposes to utilize Rs.9.00 crore from IPO proceeds to support its growing working capital needs arising from expansion in operations, higher inventory stocking, and normalization of receivable cycles. Historically, working capital requirements have been funded through a mix of internal accruals and borrowings, and the additional funding is expected to strengthen liquidity and support incremental business growth. Between FY23 and FY25, total current assets increased mainly due to higher inventories maintained to meet rising demand and supply commitments, resulting in an increase in net working capital. This growth was largely supported by improved internal accruals, indicating better operational cash generation. For FY26, current assets are projected to rise significantly, driven by planned inventory levels to support OEM orders, higher receivables aligned with expanded sales, and elevated cash balances reflecting anticipated IPO inflows. Net working capital is expected to be funded through a balanced mix of internal accruals, borrowings, and IPO proceeds. Overall, the projected increase in working capital reflects the company's business scale-up strategy, inventory commitments, and normalization of credit terms. The funding structure aims to support growth while maintaining liquidity stability and operational efficiency.

2	To fund capital expenditure for Civil construction and electrification	Sharvaya Metals Limited is expanding into the aluminium extrusion segment by setting up a new facility, marking a strategic move beyond its existing portfolio of ingots, billets, sheets, and related products. This expansion is aimed at catering to high-growth sectors such as automotive, electric vehicles, infrastructure, renewable energy, aerospace, and consumer durables, supported by increasing demand for lightweight and high-performance aluminium solutions. The new extrusion facility will enable the Company to offer customized profiles, enhance product differentiation, and strengthen OEM relationships, while leveraging in-house billet production to improve material efficiency, reduce supplier dependence, and optimize costs. The adoption of advanced extrusion technology with automation is expected to enhance operational efficiency and reduce downtime, thereby supporting margin improvement and long-term revenue growth. The Company's existing manufacturing unit in Ahmednagar, Maharashtra, currently operates at high utilization levels (~89%), indicating capacity constraints and justifying the proposed expansion. With adequate land availability, the Company plans to construct a new pre-engineered building (PEB) shed to house the additional extrusion capacity of 8,000 metric tonnes per annum. This expansion also represents backward integration for electric vehicle aluminium components and introduces new product lines for construction, defence, rail, and engineering applications. Overall, the capital expenditure toward civil construction and electrification is intended to support business scale-up, operational efficiency, and sustained growth.
3	To fund capital expenditure for purchase of Plant and Machinery	The Company proposes to utilize Rs.20.32 crore from the net proceeds toward the purchase of plant and machinery to support its planned expansion into aluminium extrusion with an annual capacity of 8,000 metric tonnes. This expansion represents a backward integration strategy for electric vehicle aluminium components while enabling the Company to manufacture new extrusion products for sectors such as automotive, construction, defence, rail, and engineering. The proposed machinery includes an extrusion press, handling systems, cranes, precision machining equipment, electrical infrastructure, and supporting utilities, all essential for efficient production, quality control, and uninterrupted operations. Together, these investments are aimed at enhancing production capacity, improving product quality and customization capabilities, reducing operational downtime, and strengthening the Company's ability to serve high-growth sectors, thereby supporting long-term revenue growth and profitability.

S. No.	Name of the object(s)	Brief description of the object(s)
4	General corporate purposes	The Company intends to utilize Rs.1.00 crore from the net proceeds toward general corporate purposes in line with SEBI ICDR regulatory limits. These funds will support routine operational and business expenses such as business development, employee costs, administrative overheads, maintenance, taxes, and other day-to-day requirements. The exact deployment will be determined by the Board based on evolving business needs, with flexibility to adjust timing or allocation in compliance with applicable laws. Any surplus or unutilized funds may be carried forward for future operational use, ensuring efficient liquidity management and business continuity.
